

SHILOH GETS TREATS AT ROXIE'S HOUSE

It is almost time to go back to school. I hope you had a wonderful summer! My sister Roxie and I saw each other almost every day. Remember the book "Shiloh Meets His Sister and Other Friends" where I find out Roxie lives around the corner?

I also told you that I walk Doc every morning. When we get back to our house from the walk, I go across the street to see Bella. Then I go around the mailbox to Sugar's house. After I say "hello" there I go two more doors down and there is Roxie's house.

Roxie is not always outside when I go there because I am so early. (Doc likes to walk at dawn!) But when she sees me through her door, her mom, schoolteacher Debbie, lets her out to see me. We sniff, lick, and bump noses. Then I head back home for my breakfast.

One morning, I did not see Roxie. I went to her door and saw that it was open slightly. I pushed the door open with my paw and walked into the kitchen. The pantry was right there! Oh boy! This is where Mrs. Debbie keeps the treats. After I sat for a while, Mrs. Debbie came into the kitchen. She laughed and laughed! "Shiloh, how did you get to the pantry? I must have left the door open slightly for fresh air," she said. She opened the pantry door and reached for the treats.

Roxie heard us and joined us in the kitchen. We went outside with our treats and spent a few minutes together.

When I went home, I thought I was clever to get a treat by sitting at Roxie's pantry. When Doc and LouLou found out what I did from Mrs. Debbie, they had a big laugh. "Shiloh, it's not as if you go hungry or anything! You just wanted some breakfast with your sister, right?" they said.

Well, the rest of this summer I found Roxie's door open a lot, so I just prance myself right in, to wait for my treat.

Be good and be sweet when you go back to school. Then maybe you will get a treat!
